JEO took possession of its new office building on July 1, 2014 and immediately began remodeling. Among other updates to the building, which the Nebraska Community Blood Bank previously occupied, the remodel consisted of converting some garage space to office space, reconstructing and adding offices, and adding two conference rooms to the lower level. The new office was also repainted and carpeted. JEO used Cheever Construction to complete the remodel.

JEO's Chief Financial Officer Alissa Nutzman was initially concerned about the timeframe of the remodel. "We had two months to get this new office ready, which was a pretty tight timeframe, but a great contractor and plan kept us on track," Nutzman said.
